Ball, John, 1585-1640.

A treatise of the covenant of grace: wherein the gradual breakings out of gospel-grace from Adam to Christ are clearly discovered, the differences betwixt the Old and New Testament are laid open, divers errors of Arminians and others are confuted; the nature of uprightness, and the way of Christ in bringing the soul into communion with himself: together with many other points, both doctrinally and practically profitable, are solidly handled. By that faithful servant of Jesus Christ, and minister of the gospel, John Ball. Published by Simeon Ash ... London, Printed by G. Miller for E. Brewster, 1645.

xii, 276, (1) p. incl. front. (part.) 17m.
A mock-epic written by Glòria Guarnelli, in collaboration with Corrado Ricci, as a parody of Mario Rapinard's poetry, in particular of his Globo, and in general of the literary and political conditions then in fashion in Italy. The joint pseudonym is a play on Rapinard's name, as well as on the word Globo, and the portrait of "Marco Balocardi" closely resembles Rapinard.

For further details concerning the parody and the parts contributed by each author, cf. La Critica, vol. 10 (1906) p. 16-19.
